Gaze at Jesus who gives our life-giving grace

The cold and frosty days are slowly receding, and the days are getting longer. We are half-way through March and already there is light in the evenings beyond six o'clock. We have longer daylight to look forward to, especially when the clock goes forward shortly. With the increase in light and warmth, there is also an increase in growth. The first blossoms of spring are already coming out. Thus, nature is coming to life after a time of hibernation.

Today's Gospel echoes what is happening in nature, for 'light has come into the world.' The light refers to God's revelation brought into the world by Jesus. The gospel declares that God's light is the light of love. The central gospel truth is that God so loved the world that He sent his only Son Jesus because He wanted it to be saved. And in the 'light' of Jesus, we find mercy, compassion, great love, kindness, and infinite grace.

As such, in the words of Jesus to Nicodemus, there is an invitation to us to gaze on Christ. Jesus speaks to Nicodemus about the purpose of his coming. He begins by citing an example in the history of Israel. The incident is the raising of the serpent on a pole. Israel was virtually in a state of death: the people were in danger of being destroyed by a plague of snakes. Moses raised the serpent on the pole, and all who looked to it were restored to life. And Jesus says, "Just as Moses lifted the serpent in the desert, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, so that everyone who believes in him may have eternal life." It illustrates how Jesus is our lifeline as we pass from earth to heaven. Jesus is the one who supplies life-giving grace. Saint Paul says, "For by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not from you; it is the gift of God".

In what follows, there is a personal application to us. Just as Israel was restored to life by gazing at the serpent lifted, we may be restored to eternal life by gazing at Christ. What does 'gaze' mean? The answer is found in the last verse of the passage, "But whoever lives the truth comes to light, so that his works may be clearly seen as done in God." It underscores the fact that genuine, righteous deeds are a manifestation of a person's commitment to truth and goodness. All in all, we are encouraged to deepen our faith in Jesus and acknowledge the transformative power of belief in Jesus Christ. The evangelist makes it amply clear that God wants every one of His children to be saved. And salvation comes through belief in His Son. Jesus is the light that enlightens everyone.

As we journey toward Easter, we are exhorted to take a stoke of our life and walk toward "the light" bestowed through Baptism at the Easter liturgy. May the Lord help us in our efforts.

The Fourth Sunday of Lent is Laetare Sunday

- The name comes from the first words of the Entrance Antiphon for Mass, "Laetare Jerusalem" — "Rejoice, O Jerusalem".
- The fourth Sunday marks the half-way point of the Lenten season, even though the Thursday before Laetare Sunday is the actual middle day of Lent.
- Signs of joy are allowed on this day, expressing our belief in the hope of the resurrection and to inspire us as we continue our Lenten commitments to prayer, fasting and almsgiving.
- Symbolizing joy, rose-colored Mass vestments may be worn instead of purple, to indicate the contrast between Laetare and the other Sundays of Lent. According to the Roman Missal, instrumental music is permitted and the altar may be decorated with flowers.
- The tradition of using the color rose is thought to come from the tradition of the Golden Rose; at one time popes sent golden roses to Catholic heads of state in Europe on this Sunday.
  - The Fourth Sunday of Lent was once called Refreshment Sunday, or the Sunday of the Five Loaves, for the miracle of the boy with loaves and fishes in the Gospel of John.
  - The Fourth Sunday of Lent was also previously observed as Mothering Sunday, in reference to Paul's second letter to the Corinthians, where the faithful are called "sons and daughters of God". Families visited the church where they were baptized, or made offerings to the cathedral, or mother-church, on this Sunday.

Please pray for the repose of the soul of
